

Stand 40

Hydromantis Environmental Software Solutions, Inc

Founded in 1985, a unique employee-owned Canadian environmental engineering and software company specializing in the development and application of innovative software-based technology for modelling, simulation, and control of wastewater treatment plants. The developer of GPS-X, a dynamic modeling and simulation platform for wastewater treatment plants. Hydromantis products and services have received attention from engineers and researchers around the world.